SEX/GENDER-BASED HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION AND
SEXUAL MISCONDUCT POLICY
Editor’s Note: Welcome to our model policy and procedures. This publication will help our campus to become compliant with Title IX, including the 2001 OCR Guidance on Sexual Harassment, 2011 Dear Colleague Letter, the SUNY and Montana OCR resolution templates, the 2014 OCR Q&A on Title IX, the April 2015 Dear Colleague Letter, the Violence Against Women Act Section 304 (March 2014), its implementing regulations finalized in October 2014, other relevant OCR Dear Colleague Letters, and the best practices emerging in the field.

There are a number of essential concepts that undergird this model, the foremost of which is the notion that we all have sexual sovereignty, the right not to be acted upon sexually by someone else unless and until we give clear permission. The law calls this autonomy. The field of student conduct uses the term equal dignity. Discrimination law calls it equity, but these are all lenses on the same fundamental concept, which we embrace fully and meaningfully.

Additionally, we use some terms of art intentionally. Gender-based misconduct is the umbrella for a wide range of behaviors that fall under that descriptor. We use the term sexual misconduct, too, when actions are gender-based, but manifest in sexual actions. We use these terms, as they are the most-neutral and least fraught policy titles, when it comes to the need to avoid crime-laden language, terms that have their own connotations, such as abuse, and terms that could tend to minimize the severity of the actions they describe. We also use the term “complainant” throughout this model, whereas many campuses prefer the term “victim or survivor”. This is intentional on our part. Rather than assuming a Complainant is a survivor, we believe each complainant needs to decide at their own pace, whether and how they will become survivors. It is not for us to presume it. It also denotes the difference between policy language and advocacy language. Reports brought by individuals other than the recipient of the unwelcome behavior are referred to as “third-party reports” and those bringing them are deemed “third-party reporters”. The person facing an accusation is referred to throughout as the “respondent”.

There are many ways to define a hostile environment. OCR uses the standard “severe, persistent or pervasive.” The Davis\(^1\) court predicated monetary damages on the basis of conduct that was “severe, pervasive and objectively offensive.” The key here is not in these terms, but in the notion that our policies need to prohibit a discriminatory effect. When conduct changes employment conditions or limits, denies or interferes with educational access, benefits or opportunities, our policies need to address it.

POLICY ON SEX/GENDER HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION AND MISCONDUCT

INTRODUCTION

Members of the Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University community, faculty, staff, students, guests and visitors have the right to be free from all forms of sex/gender harassment, discrimination and misconduct, examples of which can include acts of sexual violence, sexual harassment, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. All members of the campus community including contracted employees are expected to conduct themselves in a manner that does not infringe upon the rights of others. The University believes in zero tolerance for sex/gender-based misconduct. Zero tolerance means that when an allegation of misconduct is brought to an appropriate administrator’s attention, protective and other remedial measures will be used to reasonably ensure that such conduct ends, is not repeated, and the effects on the complainant and community are remedied, including serious sanctions when a respondent is found to have violated this policy. This policy has been developed to reaffirm these principles and to provide recourse for those individuals whose rights have been violated. This policy is intended to define community expectations and to establish a mechanism for determining when those expectations have been violated².

The University’s sex/gender harassment, discrimination and misconduct policies are not meant to inhibit or prohibit educational content or discussions inside or outside of the classroom that include controversial or sensitive subject matters protected by academic freedom. Academic freedom extends to topics that are pedagogically appropriate and germane to the subject matter of courses or that touch on academic exploration of matters of public concern.

Sexual misconduct against or by Embry-Riddle faculty, staff and students in other environments or settings associated with authorized academic or extracurricular activities, such as off-campus lab work, athletics, student or professional conferences and meetings, or club events, is also a violation of this policy. However, the university’s ability to remedy cases of sexual misconduct by persons who are not students or employees of the University may be more limited.

All students, faculty, staff, affiliates and others participating in university programs, academic coursework, university activities and operations are subject to this policy. This policy extends to all activities on university owned and/or operated property (e.g. labs, professional conferences, research associated activities and/or competitions) and university sponsored trips, meetings, athletic events, summer conferences or camps, private tutoring and coaching and social functions off campus. It also includes the use of university phones, computers, internet and any other technology provided by the university. University property includes but is not limited to buildings, rented/leased facilities, grounds, athletic fields, stadiums, labs, aircraft and other vehicles.

The University uses the preponderance of the evidence (also known as “more likely than not”) as a standard for proof of whether a violation occurred. In campus resolution proceedings, legal terms like “guilt, “innocence” and “burdens of proof” are not applicable, but the university never assumes a respondent is in violation of University policy. Campus resolution proceedings are conducted to take into account the totality of all evidence available, from all relevant sources.
TITLE IX COORDINATOR

The University’s Title IX Coordinators oversee compliance with all aspects of the sex/gender harassment, discrimination and misconduct policy. Questions about this policy should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator. OVERVIEW OF POLICY EXPECTATIONS WITH RESPECT TO PHYSICAL SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

The expectations of our community regarding sexual misconduct can be summarized as follows: In order for individuals to engage in sexual activity of any type with each other, there must be clear, knowing and voluntary consent prior to and during sexual activity. Consent is sexual permission. Consent can be given by word or action, but non-verbal consent is not as clear as talking about what you want sexually and what you don’t. Consent to some form of sexual activity cannot be automatically taken as consent to any other form of sexual activity. Previous consent does not imply consent to sexual activity in the future. Silence or passivity -- without actions demonstrating permission -- cannot be assumed to show consent. Consent, once given, can be withdrawn at any time. There must be a clear indication that consent is being withdrawn. The individual imitating sexual activity is responsible for gaining clear knowing and voluntary consent from the intended partner.

Additionally, there is a difference between seduction and coercion. Coercing someone into sexual activity violates this policy in the same way as physically forcing someone into sex. Coercion happens when someone is pressured for sex.

Because alcohol or other drug use can place the capacity to consent in question, sober sex is less likely to raise such questions. When alcohol or other drugs are being used, a person will be considered unable to give valid consent if they cannot fully understand the details of a sexual interaction (who, what, when, where, why, or how) because they lack the capacity to reasonably understand the situation. Individuals who consent to sex must be able to understand what they are doing. Under this policy, “No” always means “No,” and “Yes” may not always mean “Yes.” Anything but a clear, knowing and voluntary consent to any sexual activity is equivalent to a “no.”

OVERVIEW OF POLICY EXPECTATIONS WITH RESPECT TO CONSENSUAL RELATIONSHIPS

There are inherent risks in any romantic or sexual relationship between individuals in unequal positions (such as teacher and student, supervisor and employee). These relationships may be less consensual than perceived by the individual whose position confers power. The relationship also may be viewed in different ways by each of the parties, particularly in retrospect. Furthermore, circumstances may change, and conduct that was previously welcome may become unwelcome. Even when both parties have consented at the outset to a romantic or sexual involvement, this past consent may not remove grounds for a later charge of a violation of applicable sections of the faculty/staff handbooks. The University does not wish to interfere with private choices regarding personal relationships when these relationships do not interfere with the goals and policies of the University. For the personal protection of members of this community, relationships in which power differentials are inherent (faculty-student, staff-student, administrator-student, supervisor-supervisee) are generally discouraged.

Consensual romantic or sexual relationships in which one party maintains a direct supervisory or evaluative role over the other party are unethical. Therefore, persons with direct supervisory or evaluative responsibilities who are involved in such relationships must bring those relationships to the timely attention of their supervisor, and will likely result in the necessity to remove the employee from the supervisory or evaluative responsibilities, or shift the student out of being supervised or evaluated by someone with whom they have established a consensual relationship. This includes Resident Advisors (RAs) and students over whom they have direct responsibility. While no relationships are prohibited by this policy, failure to self-report such relationships to a supervisor as required can result in disciplinary action for an employee.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE – RISK REDUCTION TIPS

Risk reduction tips can often take a victim-blaming tone, even unintentionally. Only those who commit sexual violence are responsible for those actions. We offer the tips below with no intention to victim-blame, with recognition that these suggestions may nevertheless help you to reduce your risk of experiencing a non-consensual sexual act. Below, suggestions to avoid committing a non-consensual sexual act are also offered:

- If you have limits, make them known as early as possible.
- Tell a sexual aggressor “NO” clearly and firmly.
- Try to remove yourself from the physical presence of a sexual aggressor.
- Find someone nearby and ask for help.
- Take affirmative responsibility for your alcohol intake/drug use and acknowledge that alcohol/drugs lower your sexual inhibitions and may make you vulnerable to someone who views a drunk or high person as a sexual opportunity.
- Give thought to sharing your intimate content, pictures, images and videos with others, even those you may trust. If you do choose to share, clarify your expectations as to how or if those images may be used, shared or disseminated.
- Take care of your friends and ask that they take care of you. A real friend will step in and say something if you are about to make a mistake. Respect them when they do.

3 When a consensual relationship gives rise to quid pro quo harassment allegations, those allegations are to be resolved in accord with the University’s policies on Title IX. When an employee fails to timely notify their supervisor under this policy, but no allegations of harassment are present, the resolution falls under the policy on “Failure to comply” in the employee/faculty handbook, and should be resolved as such.
• Download the Circle of 6 app on your phone and pre-program numbers to call in an emergency.
• Register for Safe Ride through the Student Government Association

If you find yourself in the position of being the initiator of sexual behavior, you owe sexual respect to your potential partner. These suggestions may help you to reduce your risk for being accused of sexual misconduct:

• Clearly communicate your intentions to your sexual partner and give them a chance to clearly relate their intentions to you.
• Understand and respect personal boundaries.
• DON’T MAKE ASSUMPTIONS about consent; about someone’s sexual availability; about whether they are attracted to you; about how far you can go or about whether they are physically and/or mentally able to consent. Your partner’s consent should be affirmative and continuous. If there are any questions or ambiguity then you DO NOT have consent.
• Mixed messages from your partner are a clear indication that you should stop, defuse any sexual tension and communicate better. You may be misreading them. They may not have figured out how far they want to go with you yet. You must respect the timeline for sexual behaviors with which they are comfortable.
• Don’t take advantage of someone’s drunkenness or altered state, even if they willingly consumed alcohol or substances.
• Realize that your potential partner could feel intimidated or coerced by you. You may have a power advantage simply because of your gender or physical presence. Don’t abuse that power.
• Do not share intimate content, pictures, images and videos that are shared with you.
• Understand that consent to some form of sexual behavior does not automatically imply consent to any other forms of sexual behavior.
• Silence, passivity, or non-responsiveness cannot be interpreted as an indication of consent. Read your potential partner carefully, paying attention to verbal and non-verbal communication and body language.

SEXUAL MISCONDUCT OFFENSES INCLUDE, BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO:

1. Sexual Harassment
2. Non-Consensual Sexual Contact (or attempts to commit same)
3. Non-Consensual Sexual Intercourse (or attempts to commit same)
4. Sexual Exploitation
1. SEXUAL HARASSMENT

Sexual harassment is unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other sex-based and/or gender-based physical, written, visual, or verbal conduct of a sexual nature where:

i. Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual’s employment or education; or
ii. Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment or academic decisions affecting the individual; or
iii. Such conduct has the purpose or effect of:
   1. Unreasonably interfering with an individual’s academic, social or professional performance; or
   2. Creating an intimidating, hostile, or demeaning employment or educational environment.

Anyone experiencing sexual harassment in any University program is encouraged to report it immediately to the Title IX Coordinator. Remedies, education and/or training will be provided in response.

Sexual harassment may be disciplined when it takes the form of quid pro quo harassment, retaliatory harassment and/or creates a hostile environment.

A hostile environment is created when sexual harassment is:

- sufficiently severe, or
- persistent or pervasive, and
- objectively offensive that it:
  - unreasonably interferes with, denies or limits someone’s ability to participate in or benefit from the university’s educational [and/or employment], social and/or residential program.

Quid Pro Quo Harassment is:

- Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.
- By a person having power or authority over another constitutes sexual harassment when:

\[^4\] Purpose or intent is not an element of sexual harassment.
• Submission to such sexual conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of rating or evaluating an individual’s educational [or employment] progress, development, or performance.
• This includes when submission to such conduct would be a condition for access to receiving the benefits of any educational [or employment] program.

Examples include: an attempt to coerce an unwilling person into a sexual relationship; to repeatedly subject a person to egregious, unwelcome sexual attention; to punish a refusal to comply with a sexual based request; to condition a benefit on submitting to sexual advances; sexual violence; intimate partner violence, stalking; gender-based bullying.5

Some examples of possible Sexual Harassment include:

• A professor insists that a student have sexual contact or intercourse with him/her in exchange for a good grade. This is harassment regardless of whether the student accedes to the request.
• A student repeatedly sends sexually oriented jokes around on an email list s/he created, even when asked to stop, causing one recipient to avoid the sender on campus and in the residence hall in which they both live.
• Explicit sexual pictures are displayed in a professor’s office or on the exterior of a residence hall door.
• Two supervisors frequently ‘rate’ several employees’ bodies and sex appeal, commenting suggestively about their clothing and appearance.
• A professor engages students in her class in discussions about their past sexual experiences, yet the conversation is not in any way germane to the subject matter of the class. She probes for explicit details, and demands that students answer her, though they are clearly uncomfortable and hesitant.
• An ex-girlfriend widely spreads false stories about her sex life with her former boyfriend to the clear discomfort of the boyfriend, turning him into a social pariah on campus.
• Male students take to calling a particular brunette student “Monica” because of her resemblance to Monica Lewinsky. Soon, everyone adopts this nickname for her, and she is the target of relentless remarks about cigars, the president, “sexual relations” and Weight Watchers.
• A student grabbed another student by the hair, then grabbed her breast and put his mouth on it. While this is sexual harassment, it is also a form of sexual violence.

2. NON-CONSENSUAL SEXUAL CONTACT

5 These offenses are referenced and incorporated within sexual harassment, but also broken-out as stand-alone offenses, below. They are both, so be sure to charge accordingly.
Non-Consensual Sexual Contact is having or attempting to have any non-consensual, non-accidental touching of a sexual nature. This touching can include, but is not limited to, kissing or touching the private parts of another, or causing the other to touch the harasser’s private parts, however slight, with any object that is without consent and/or by force.

Sexual Contact includes:

- Intentional contact with the breasts, buttock, groin, or genitals, or touching another with any of these body parts, or making another touch you or themselves with or on any of these body parts; or
- Any other intentional bodily contact in a sexual manner.

3. NON-CONSENSUAL SEXUAL INTERCOURSE

Non-Consensual Sexual Intercourse is:

- any sexual intercourse
- however slight
- with any object
- by a person upon another person
- that is without consent and/or by force

Intercourse includes:

- vaginal or anal penetration by a penis, object, tongue or finger, and oral copulation (mouth to genital contact), no matter how slight the penetration or contact.

4. SEXUAL EXPLOITATION

Sexual exploitation is an act or omission to act that involves taking non-consensual, unjust, humiliating, or abusive sexual advantage of another, either for his or her own advantage or to benefit or advantage anyone other than the Complainant. Examples of sexual exploitation include, but are not limited to:

6 The use of force is not “worse” than the subjective experience of violation of someone who has sex without consent. However, the use of physical force constitutes a stand-alone non-sexual offense as well, as it is our expectation that those who use physical force (restrict, battery, etc.) would face not just the sexual misconduct charge, but charges under the code for the additional assultive behavior.

7 Id.
• Creating a picture(s), movie(s), webcam, tape recording(s), graphic written narrative(s), or other means of memorializing sexual behavior or a state of undress of another person without the other’s knowledge and consent;
• Sharing items described in the paragraph above beyond the boundaries of consent where consent was given. For example, showing a picture to friends where consent to view it was given for oneself only or in retaliation for a relationship ending, the material is posted in a public area online or otherwise;
• Observing or facilitating observation by others of sexual behavior or a state of undress of another person without the knowledge and consent of that person;
• “Peeping Tom” or voyeuristic behaviors;
• Engaging in sexual behavior with knowledge of an illness or disease (HIV, STD, or STI) that could be transmitted by the behavior without full and appropriate disclosure to the partner(s) of all health and safety concerns;
• Engaging in or attempting to engage others in “escort services” or “dating services” which include or encourage in any way sexual behavior in exchange for money or other benefit or reward;
• Intentionally, knowingly, or surreptitiously providing drugs or alcohol to a person for the purpose of sexual exploitation; or
• Exposing another person to pornographic material without the person’s advance knowledge or consent Going beyond the boundaries of consent (such as letting your friend hide in the closet to watch you having consensual sex);
• Intentionally or recklessly exposing one’s genitals in non-consensual circumstances; inducing another to expose their genitals;
• Sexually-based stalking and/or bullying may also be forms of sexual exploitation

ADDITIONAL APPLICABLE DEFINITIONS:

• Consent:
  o Consent is an explicitly communicated, reversible mutual agreement in which all parties are capable of making a decision. Consent is informed, voluntary, and actively given. Consent exists when all parties exchange mutually understandable affirmative words or behavior indicating their agreement to participate voluntarily in sexual activity.
  o Consent is active, not passive.
  o Silence, in and of itself, cannot be interpreted as consent.

8 This would include using a camera to take pictures or video under the skirt of a person.
9 The definition of “consent” complainant may vary from state to state.
Arizona Definition of Consent
Consent can be given by words or actions, as long as those words or actions create mutually understandable permission regarding willingness to engage in (and the conditions of) sexual activity.

Consent to any one form of sexual activity cannot automatically imply consent to any other forms of sexual activity.

Previous relationships or prior consent cannot imply consent to future sexual acts.

Consent can be withdrawn once given, as long as that withdrawal is clearly communicated.

In order to give consent, one must be of legal age.

Sexual activity with someone you know to be or should know to be incapacitated constitutes a violation of this policy.

- An individual is incapacitated when s/he is not able to make rational, reasonable judgments and therefore is incapable of giving consent. Incapacitation is the inability, temporarily or permanently, to give consent, because the individual is mentally and/or physically impaired, from developmental disability, by alcohol or other drug consumption\(^\text{10}\), either voluntarily or involuntarily, or the individual is unconscious, asleep, involuntarily physically restrained, or otherwise unaware that the sexual activity is occurring.

- In addition, an individual is incapacitated if s/he demonstrates that they are unaware of where they are, how they got there, or why or how they became engaged in a sexual activity. Where alcohol is involved, incapacitation is a state beyond drunkenness or intoxication. Some indicators of incapacitation may include, but are not limited to, lack of control over physical movements (such as walking without assistance), being unaware of circumstances or surroundings, or being unable to communicate for any reason.

- An individual in a blackout\(^\text{11}\) state may or may not meet the definition of incapacitation. Such an individual may appear to act normally, but later may not have recall of the events in question. The extent to which a person in this state affirmatively gives words or actions indicating a \(^{10}\) Possession, use and/or distribution of any of these substances, including Rohypnol, Ketamine, GHB, Burundanga, etc. is prohibited, and administering one of these drugs to another student is a violation of this policy. More information on these drugs can be found at http://www.911rape.org/.

\(^{11}\) Blackout, as it is used in scholarly literature, refers to a period where memory formation is blocked. A period of consistent memory loss is termed a blackout, whereas periods where memory is both lost and formed intermittently can be referred to in the literature as a brownout. Neither state of blackout nor brownout automatically indicates incapacitation, but factual context can establish that a blackout or a brownout is occurring in an individual who is incapacitated (where incapacity is defined as an inability to make rational, reasonable decisions or judgments). It is a mistake to automatically associate memory loss with incapacitation; they are often coupled, but not always. (see e.g.: Mundt & Wetherill – 2012; NIH 2004) willingness to engage in sexual activity and the other person is unaware—or reasonably could not have known—of the alcohol consumption or blackout, must be evaluated in determining whether consent could be considered as having been given.

• Force: Force is the use of physical violence and/or imposing on someone physically to gain sexual access. Force also includes threats, intimidation (implied threats) and coercion that overcomes free will or resistance or that produces consent (“Have sex with me or I’ll hit you. Okay, don’t hit me, I’ll do what you want.”).
  o Coercion is unreasonable pressure for sexual activity. Continued pressure beyond that point can be coercive. When person “A” makes it clear they do not want to engage in sexual activity, that they want to stop, or that they do not want to go past a certain point of sexual interaction, continued pressure by person “B” is considered coercion.
  o NOTE: There is no requirement for a party to resist the sexual advance or request, but resistance is a clear demonstration of non-consent. The presence of force is not demonstrated by the absence of resistance. Sexual activity that is forced is by definition non-consensual, but non-consensual sexual activity is not by definition forced.

• Use of alcohol or other drugs will never function to excuse any behavior that violates this policy.
• This policy is applicable regardless of the sexual orientation and/or gender identity of individuals engaging in sexual activity.

Examples

1. Amanda and Bill meet at a party. They spend the evening dancing and getting to know each other. Bill convinces Amanda to come up to his room. From 11:00pm until 3:00am, Bill uses every line he can think of to convince Amanda to have sex with him, but she adamantly refuses. He keeps at her, and begins to question her religious convictions, and accuses her of being “a prude.” Finally, it seems to Bill that her resolve is weakening, and he convinces her to give him a “hand job” (hand to genital contact). Amanda would never had done it but for Bill’s incessant advances. He feels that he successfully seduced her, and that she wanted to do it all along, but was playing shy and hard to get. Why else would she have come up to his room alone after the party? If she really didn’t want it, she could have left. Bill is responsible for violating the university Non-Consensual Sexual Contact policy. It is likely that campus decision-makers would find that the degree and duration of the pressure Bill applied to Amanda are unreasonable. Bill coerced Amanda into performing unwanted sexual touching upon him. Where sexual activity is coerced, it is forced. Consent is not valid when forced. Sexual contact without consent is sexual misconduct.

2. Jiang is a junior at the university. Beth is a sophomore. Jiang comes to Beth’s residence hall room with some mutual friends to watch a movie. Jiang and Beth, who have never met before, are attracted to each other. After the movie, everyone leaves, and Jiang and Beth are alone. They hit it off, and are soon becoming more intimate. They start to make out. Jiang verbally expresses his desire to have sex with Beth. Beth, who was abused by a baby-sitter when she was five, and has not had any sexual relations since, is shocked at how quickly things are progressing. As Jiang takes her by the wrist over to the bed, lays her down, undresses her, and begins to have intercourse with her, Beth has a severe flashback to her childhood trauma. She wants to tell Jiang to stop, but cannot. Beth is stiff and unresponsive during the intercourse. Is this a policy violation? Jiang would be held responsible in this scenario for Non Consensual Sexual Intercourse. It is the duty of the sexual initiator, Jiang, to make sure that he has mutually understandable consent to engage in sex. Though consent need not be verbal, it is the clearest form of consent. Here, Jiang had no verbal or non-verbal mutually understandable indication from Beth that she consented to sexual intercourse. Of course, wherever possible, it is important to be as clear as possible as to whether or not sexual contact is desired, and to be aware that for psychological reasons, or because of alcohol or drug use, one’s partner may not be in a position to provide as clear an indication as the policy requires. As the policy makes clear, consent must be actively, not passively, given.

3. Kevin and John are at a party. Kevin is not sure how much John has been drinking, but he is pretty sure it’s a lot. After the party, he walks John to his room, and John comes on to Kevin, initiating sexual activity. Kevin asks him if he is really up to this, and John says yes. Clothes go flying, and they end up in John’s bed. Suddenly, John runs for the bathroom. When he returns, his face is pale, and Kevin thinks he may have thrown up. John gets back into bed, and they begin to have sexual intercourse. Kevin is having a good time, though he can’t help but notice that John seems pretty groggy and passive, and he thinks John may have even passed out briefly during the sex, but he does not let that stop him. When Kevin runs into John the next day, he thanks him for the wild night. John remembers nothing, and decides to make a report to the Dean. This is a violation of the Non-Consensual Sexual Intercourse Policy. Kevin should have known that John was incapable of making a rational, reasonable decision about sex. Even if John seemed to consent, Kevin was well aware that John had consumed a large amount of alcohol, and Kevin thought John was physically ill, and that he passed out during sex. Kevin should be held accountable for taking advantage of John in his condition. This is not the level of respectful conduct the university expects.

OTHER MISCONDUCT OFFENSES (WILL FALL UNDER TITLE IX WHEN SEX OR GENDER-BASED)\textsuperscript{12}

1. Verbal or physical abuse, including fighting, threats, harassment, coercion, and/or other conduct or action that threatens the health and safety of any person;
2. Discrimination is defined as actions that deprive other members of the community of educational or employment access, benefits or opportunities on the basis of sex or gender;
3. Intimidation is defined as implied threats or acts that cause an unreasonable fear of harm in another;
4. Hazing is defined as acts likely to cause physical or psychological harm or social ostracism to any person within the university community, when related to the admission, initiation, pledging, joining, or any other group-affiliation activity (as defined further in the Hazing Policy);
5. Bullying (including cyber bullying) is defined as repeated and/or severe aggressive behavior likely to intimidate or intentionally hurt, control or diminish another person, physically or mentally that is not speech or conduct otherwise protected by the 1\textsuperscript{st} Amendment.
6. Intimate Partner Violence is also sometimes known as dating violence, domestic violence, or relationship violence. \textsuperscript{13} In general, intimate partner violence includes physically, sexually, economically and/or psychologically abusive behavior that arises in the form of a direct violent act, or indirectly as acts that expressly or implicitly threatens violence. Intimate partner violence also occurs when one partner attempts to maintain power and control over the other through one or more forms of abuse, including sexual, physical, verbal, or emotional abuse.
   a. A boyfriend shoves his girlfriend into a wall upon seeing her talking to a male friend. This physical assault based in jealousy is intimate partner violence.
   b. An ex-girlfriend makes her female partner, threatening to out her as a lesbian if she doesn’t give her ex another chance. Psychological abuse is a form of Intimate Partner Violence.
   c. A graduate student refuses to wear a condom and forces his girlfriend to take hormonal birth control though it makes her ill, in order to prevent pregnancy.
   d. Married employees are witnessed in the parking garage, with one partner slapping and scratching the other in the midst of an argument.

\textsuperscript{12} These offenses appear here, rather than along with the other offense definitions because we do not encourage their inclusion as stand-alone violations in this policy.
\textsuperscript{13} Complainant Definitions of Domestic Violence may be found at https://www.childwelfare.gov/pubpdfs/defdomvio.pdf
7. Stalking (including cyber/electronic stalking)
   a. Stalking 1:
      i. A course of conduct
      ii. Directed at a specific person
      iii. On the basis of actual or perceived membership in a protected class iv. That is unwelcome, AND
      v. Would cause a reasonable person to feel fear
   b. Stalking 2:
      vi. Repetitive and Menacing
      vii. Pursuit, following, harassing and/or interfering with the peace and/or safety of another
   c. Examples of Stalking:
      viii. A student repeatedly shows up at another student's on-campus residence, always notifying the front desk attendant that they are there to see the resident. Upon a call to the resident, the student informs residence hall staff that this visitor is uninvited and continuously attempts to see them, even so far as waiting for them outside of classes and showing up to their on-campus place of employment requesting that they go out on a date together. Stalking 1.
      ix. A graduate student working as a on-campus tutor received flowers and gifts delivered to their office. After learning the gifts were from a student they recently tutored, the graduate student thanked the student and stated that it was not necessary and would appreciate the gift deliveries to stop. The student then started leaving notes of love and gratitude on the graduate assistant's car, both on-campus and at home. Asked again to stop, the student stated by email: "You can ask me to stop, but I'm not giving up. We are meant to be together, and I'll do anything necessary to make you have the feelings for me that I have for you." When the tutor did not respond, the student emailed again, "You cannot escape me. I will track you to the ends of the earth. We are meant to be together." Stalking 2.

8. Any other University policies may fall within this section when a violation is motivated by the actual or perceived membership of the reporting party’s sex or gender.

RETALIATION

Retaliation is defined as attempts or acts to seek retribution including, but not limited to, any form of intimidation, reprisal, harassment, depriving participation in activities, or intent to prevent participation in University proceedings under this Policy. Retaliation may include continued abuse or violence, other harassment, and slander and libel. Retaliation against an individual for an allegation, for supporting a reporting party or for assisting in providing information relevant to an allegation is a serious violation of university policy.

Administrative Intermediate Actions

Students, faculty or staff who are being investigated for possible violations of the Sex/Gender Harassment, Discrimination and Misconduct Policy maybe issued an intermediate action until the investigation and/or adjudication process is complete. Some of the intermediate action may include, but is not limited to: interim suspension (students), employee leave with/without pay, restriction on participation of University sponsored activities, modifications to class/work schedules, reassignment of employment duties, reassignment of residence hall, trespass from particular locations on campus and no contact orders.

SANCTIONS

*The Title IX Coordinators reserve the right to broaden or lessen any range of recommended sanctions.

CONFIDENTIALITY, PRIVACY AND REPORTING POLICY

Confidentiality and Reporting of Offenses Under This Policy

All University employees (faculty, staff, administrators), except designated confidential reporters, are expected to immediately report actual or suspected discrimination or harassment to the Title IX Coordinator. In order to make informed choices, it is important to be aware of confidentiality, private, and mandatory reporting requirements when consulting campus resources. On campus, some resources may maintain confidentiality – meaning they are not required to report actual or suspected discrimination or harassment to appropriate university officials - thereby offering options and advice without any obligation to inform an outside agency or individual unless a complainant has requested information to be shared. Other resources exist for a complainant to report crimes and policy violations and these resources will take action when an incident is reported to them. The following describes the three reporting options at the University:

Confidential Reporting

If a reporting party would like the details of an incident to be kept confidential, the reporting party may speak with:

- On-campus licensed professional mental health counselors and staff
- On-campus health service providers and staff
- Off-campus:
  - Licensed professional counselors
  - Local rape crisis counselors
  - Domestic violence resources,
  - Local or state assistance agencies,
  - Clergy/Chaplains

All of the above employees will maintain confidentiality except in extreme cases of immediate threat or danger, or abuse of a minor. Campus counselors and/or the Employee Assistance Program are available to help free of charge and can be seen on an emergency basis during normal business hours. These employees will submit timely, quarterly, semesterly, yearly anonymous, aggregate statistical information for Clery Act purposes unless they believe it would be harmful to a specific client, patient or parishioner.

Private Reporting Option

If a reporting party would like the details of the incident to be reported, but does not want personally identifiable information shared, they may speak to:

- Director of Women’s and Diversity Center (Prescott Campus)

A private reporter will report details of the incident to the Title IX Coordinator, but will not share personally identifiable information without the complainant’s consent except in extreme cases of immediate threat or danger, or abuse of a minor. Please be aware that in some cases, the above employee may ask for additional information after reporting the incident to the Title IX Coordinator. The purpose of the request for additional information is to ensure the safety of the complainant, the reporting party and the campus community.

Formal Reporting Options
All university employees have a duty to report, unless they fall under the “Confidential Reporting” section above. Complainants may want to consider carefully whether they share personally identifiable details with non-confidential employees, as those details must be shared by the employee (who is considered a third party reporter) with the Title IX Coordinator. Employees must share all details of the reports they receive. General statements gathered in climate surveys, classroom writing assignments, human subjects research, or events such as Take Back the Night marches or speak-outs do not provide notice that must be reported to the Title IX Coordinator by employees. Remedial actions may result without formal university action.

If a complainant does not wish for their name to be shared, does not wish for an investigation to take place, or does not want a formal resolution to be pursued, the complainant may make such a request to the Title IX Coordinator, who will evaluate that request in light of the duty to ensure the safety of the campus and comply with federal law. In cases indicating pattern, predation, threat, weapons and/or violence, the University will likely be unable to honor a request for confidentiality. In cases where the complainant requests confidentiality and the circumstances allow the University to honor that request, the University will offer interim supports and remedies to the complainant and the community, but will not otherwise pursue formal action. Both complainants and third party reporters have the right, and can expect, to have reports taken seriously by the University when formally reported, and to have those incidents investigated and properly resolved through these procedures.

Formal reporting still affords privacy to the reporter, and only a small group of officials who need to know will be told, including but not limited to: Human Resources, Division of Student Affairs, Campus Safety and Security, Counseling Center, and the Chancellor. Information will be shared as necessary with investigators, witnesses and the responding party. The circle of people with this knowledge will be kept as tight as possible to preserve the rights and privacy of both the complainant and respondent.

Reports can be made directly to the Title IX Coordinator via e-mail, phone or in person. Please refer to contact information located on page 4.

Additionally, anonymous reports can be made by complainants and/or third party reporters using the online reporting form click here or the reporting hotline:

- Prescott Campus- 928-777-4688 (HOTT)

* Note that these anonymous reports may prompt a need for the institution to investigate.
Law Enforcement Reporting

Many incidents of sexual misconduct are also violations of the law. Individuals who wish to report a crime to law enforcement officials can contact the local agencies directly. They can also request assistance contacting the proper agency through the Title IX Coordinator, Campus Safety and Security or any confidential reporter. The involvement of law enforcement does not replace actions the university will take to ensure that the procedures outlined for sexual misconduct are followed.

Failure of a non-confidential employee, as described in this section, to report an incident or incidents of sex or gender harassment discrimination, or sexual misconduct of which they become aware, is a violation of University policy and can be subject to disciplinary action for failure to comply with University policies.

Federal Statistical Reporting Obligations

Certain campus officials – those deemed Campus Security Authorities (please contact Campus Safety and Security for more information) - have a duty to report sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking for federal statistical reporting purposes (Clery Act). All personally identifiable information is kept confidential, but statistical information must be passed along to campus law enforcement regarding the type of incident and its general location (on or off-campus, in the surrounding area, but no addresses are given) for publication in the Annual Security Report. This report helps to provide the community with a clear picture of the extent and nature of campus crime, to ensure greater community safety. Mandated federal reporters include: student/conduct affairs, campus law enforcement, local police, coaches, athletic directors, residence life staff, student activities staff, human resources staff, advisors to student organizations and any other official with significant responsibility for student and campus activities. The information to be shared includes the date, the location of the incident (using Clery location categories) and the Clery crime category. This reporting protects the identity of the complainant and may be done anonymously.

Federal Timely Warning Reporting Obligations

Complainants of sexual misconduct should also be aware that university administrators must issue immediate timely warnings for incidents reported to them that are confirmed to pose a substantial threat of bodily harm or danger to members of the campus community. The University will ensure that a complainant’s name and other identifying information is not disclosed, while still providing enough information for community members to make safety decisions in light of the danger.
Additional Policy Provisions

A. False Reports

University will not tolerate intentional false reporting of incidents. It is a violation of University Policy to make an intentionally false report of any policy violation, and it may also violate state criminal statutes and civil defamation laws.

B. Amnesty for Complainants and Witnesses

The University community encourages the reporting of misconduct and crimes by complainants and witnesses. Sometimes, complainants or witnesses are hesitant to report to University officials or participate in resolution processes because they fear that they themselves may be accused of policy violations, such as underage drinking at the time of the incident. It is in the best interests of this community that as many complainants as possible choose to report to university officials, and that witnesses come forward to share what they know. To encourage reporting, the University pursues a policy of offering complainants of misconduct and witnesses amnesty from minor policy violations related to the incident.

Sometimes, students are hesitant to offer assistance to others for fear that they may get themselves in trouble (for example, a student who has been drinking underage might hesitate to help take a sexual misconduct complainant to the Campus Safety and Security). The University pursues a policy of amnesty for students who offer help to others in need. While policy violations cannot be overlooked, the university will provide educational options, rather than punishment, to those who offer their assistance to others in need.

C. Parental Notification

The University reserves the right to notify parents/guardians of dependent students regarding any health or safety risk, change in student status or conduct situation, particularly alcohol and other drug violations. The University may also notify parents/guardians of non-dependent students who are under age 21 of alcohol and/or drug policy violations. Where a student is non-dependent, the University may contact parents/guardians to inform them of situations in which there is a significant and articulable health and/or safety risk. The University also reserves the right to designate which university officials have a need to know about individual conduct reports pursuant to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Here are some of the most commonly asked questions regarding the University’s sexual misconduct policy and procedures.

Does information about a report remain private?

The privacy of all parties to a report of sexual misconduct must be respected, except insofar as it interferes with the University’s obligation to fully investigate allegations of sexual misconduct. Where privacy is not strictly kept, it will still be tightly controlled on a need-to-know basis. The University will not disseminate information and/or written materials to persons not involved in the resolution process without the consent of both parties. Witnesses are also required to maintain the privacy of information shared with them during interviews and/or hearings. Violations of the privacy of the reporting party or the responding party may lead to conduct action by the University, though both parties are allowed to share their perspectives and experiences. All parties, including witnesses, involved in an allegation are strongly encouraged to maintain the privacy of information and/or written materials.

In all resolutions of sexual misconduct, all parties will be informed of the outcome. In some instances, the administration also may choose to make a brief public announcement of the nature of the violation and the action taken, without using the name or identifiable information of the alleged complainant. Certain University administrators are informed of the outcome within the bounds of student privacy (e.g., the President of the University, Dean of Students, Director of Campus Safety and Security). The institution also must statistically report the occurrence on campus of major violent crimes, including certain sex offenses, in an “Annual Security Report” of campus crime statistics. This statistical report does not include personally identifiable information.

Will my parents be told?

No, not unless you tell them. Whether you are the reporting party, complainant or the respondent, the University’s primary relationship is to the student and not to the parent. However, in the event of major medical, disciplinary, or academic jeopardy, students are strongly encouraged to inform their parents. University officials will directly inform parents when requested to do so by a student, in a life-threatening situation, or if an individual has granted FERPA permissions.
Will the responding party know my identity?

Yes, if the University determines there is reasonable cause to believe a violation has occurred and investigates the matter. The respondent has the right to know the identity of the reporting party/complainant.

Do I have to name the respondent?

Yes, if you want formal disciplinary action to be taken against the respondent. You can report the incident without the identity of the responding party, but doing so may limit the institution’s ability to respond comprehensively.

What do I do if I am accused of sexual misconduct?

DO NOT contact the reporting party/complainant. You may immediately want to contact someone who can act as your advisor; anyone may serve as your advisor. You may also contact the Dean of Students Office, Human Resources, or the Title IX Coordinator, which can explain the University's procedures for addressing sexual misconduct reports. You may also want to talk to a confidential counselor at the counseling center or seek other community assistance. See below regarding legal representation.

Will I (as a complainant) have to pay for counseling/or medical care?

Not if seeking care through Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. If a complainant is accessing community and non-institutional services, payment for these will be subject to state/local laws, insurance requirements, etc. In Arizona, a complainant may be eligible to receive state bases services free of charge.

What about legal advice?

Complainants of criminal sexual assault need not retain a private attorney to pursue criminal prosecution because representation will be handled by the District Attorney's [Prosecutor's] office. This option exists when the complainant chooses to file a report with local law enforcement. You may want to retain an attorney if you are considering filing a civil action or are the respondent. The respondent may retain counsel at their own expense if they determine that they need legal advice about criminal prosecution and/or the campus conduct proceeding. Both the responding party and the reporting party may also use an attorney as their advisor.
[or advocate] during the campus’ resolution process. Attorneys are subject to the same restrictions as other advisors [or advocates] in the process as described in the student conduct process.

How is a report of sexual misconduct decided?

The University investigates allegations of sex/gender based harassment, discrimination or misconduct to determine whether there is evidence to indicate a policy violation is “more likely than not.” This standard, called the preponderance of the evidence, corresponds to an amount of evidence indicating a policy violation is more than 50% likely.

What about changing residence hall rooms?

You may request a room change if you want to move. Room changes under these circumstances are considered emergencies. It is typically institutional policy that in emergency room changes, the student is moved to the first available suitable room. If you prefer that the respondent be moved to another residence hall, that request will be evaluated by the Title IX Coordinator to determine if it can be honored. Other assistance and modifications available to you might include:

- Assistance from University support staff in completing a room relocation;
- Arranging to dissolve a housing contract and pro-rating a refund;
- Assistance with or rescheduling an academic assignment (paper, exams, etc.) or otherwise implementing academic assistance;
- Taking an incomplete in a class;
- Assistance with transferring class sections or changing to a special topics seminar;
- Temporary withdrawal;
- Assistance with alternative course completion options;
- Escorts on campus;
- On or off-campus counseling assistance;
- Other accommodations for safety as necessary.

What about changing offices?

An employee may request an office change or classroom teaching assignment change through the Title IX Coordinator. The Title IX Coordinator will evaluate the request and options with Human Resources and appropriate supervisors. In cases where the safety of a complainant is at issue, the university will take measures to eliminate the risk associated with an office or classroom. Other assistance and modifications available might include:

- Changing work schedules
- Providing a substitute instructor
- Telecommuting (if reasonable for the job responsibilities)
- Temporary paid leave
- Change of parking assignment
- Escorts on campus

What should I do about preserving evidence of a sexual assault?

Police are in the best position to secure evidence of a crime. Physical evidence of a criminal sexual assault must be collected from the alleged complainant’s person within 120 hours, though evidence can often be obtained from towels, sheets, clothes, etc. for much longer periods of time. If you believe you have been a victim of a criminal sexual assault, you should go to the Hospital Emergency Room, before washing yourself or your clothing. While it may be uncomfortable, it is best to also avoid eating or drinking anything; brushing teeth, removing tampons or sanitary pads until the exam is complete.

Prescott Campus

Yavapai Family Advocacy Center (YFAC)
Prescott Valley, AZ 86312
(928) 775-0669

Because YFAC is a safe place for victims, the physical address is not published

The Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (a specially trained nurse) at the YFAC/hospital is usually on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week (call the Emergency Room if you first want to speak to the nurse; ER will refer you). If a complainant goes to the hospital, local police will be called, but s/he is not obligated to talk to the police or to pursue prosecution. Having the evidence collected in this manner will help to keep all options available to a complainant, but will not obligate him or her to any course of action. Collecting evidence can assist the authorities in pursuing criminal charges, should the complainant decide later to exercise it.
For the Complainant: the hospital staff will collect evidence, check for injuries, address pregnancy concerns and address the possibility of exposure to sexually transmitted infections. If you have changed clothing since the assault, bring the clothing you had on at the time of the assault with you to the hospital in a clean, sanitary container such as a clean paper grocery bag or wrapped in a clean sheet (plastic containers do not breathe, and may render evidence useless). If you have not changed clothes, bring a change of clothes with you to the hospital, if possible, as they will likely keep the clothes you are wearing as evidence. You can take a support person with you to the hospital, and they can accompany you through the exam, if you want. Do not disturb the crime scene—leave all sheets, towels, etc. that may bear evidence for the police to collect.

Will a complainant be sanctioned when reporting a sexual misconduct policy violation if he/she has illegally used drugs or alcohol?

No. The seriousness of sexual misconduct is a major concern and the university does not want any of the circumstances (e.g., drug or alcohol use) to inhibit the reporting of sexual misconduct. The University provides amnesty from any consequences for minor policy violations that occur during or come to light as the result of a complainant’s report of sexual misconduct. However, in the interest of safety, flight students may be grounded from flight activity until they are emotionally and physically prepared to return to the cockpit. The Wellness Center and Counseling Services will assist students with this process and evaluation. It is not necessary for the complainant to reveal to the flight department the details or circumstances of an assault.

Will the use of drugs or alcohol affect the outcome of a sexual misconduct conduct resolution?

The use of alcohol and/or drugs by either party will not diminish the respondent’s responsibility. On the other hand, alcohol and/or drug use is likely to affect the respondent’s memory and, therefore, may affect the resolution of the reported misconduct. A respondent must either remember the alleged incident or have sufficient circumstantial evidence, physical evidence and/or witnesses to prove that policy was violated. If the respondent does not remember the circumstances of the alleged incident, it may not be possible to impose sanctions on the respondent without further corroborating information. Use of alcohol and/or other drugs will never excuse a violation by a respondent.
Will either party’s prior use of drugs and/or alcohol be a factor when reporting sexual misconduct?

Not unless there is a compelling reason to believe that prior use or abuse is relevant to the present matter.

What should I do if I am uncertain about what happened?

If you believe that you have experienced sexual misconduct, but are unsure of whether it was a violation of the University’s sexual misconduct policy, you should contact the Title IX Coordinator (not confidential) or Counseling Center (confidential). If you believe you have experienced non-consensual sexual intercourse, you should contact The Wellness Center or the hospital emergency room to address all possible physical injuries.
